

A member of the National Bureau of Standards (NBS) Electricity Division in the Vacuum Tube Testing Lab in February 1919. The NBS developed tests to accurately determine the expected performance of a tube based on its characteristics. These types of measurements led to standardized tube manufacture and the growth of the electronics industry.

PLACE
STAMP
HERE

To see more historic NIST images visit www.nist.gov/digitalarchives.

